JUDGE CARTER SUGGESTS
FRANK HARRIS FOR RAIL-ROAD COMMISSIONER.

Editor Sun: I have read with a great deal of interest the able editorials of Hon. Frank E. Harris, in The Okaloosa Banner, in regard to the failure of the Railroad Commission to give relief to the interior portions of the State, and agree with him in a greater part of his views.

Previous to the establishment of the first Railroad Commission, Gainesville had built up a very considerable wholesale business. After its creation and operation for a short time, these business houses went out of business at Gainesville and removed to Jacksonville, and helped largely to build up that city. After its abolition Gainesville again built up a large wholesale trade. The Commission was re-established and Gainesville again went to the wall and her enterprising wholesalers are now doing business in Jacksonville. It seemed that the result, whether intended or not, was to build up the seaport cities at the expense of the interior towns.

I remember that the bill for the abolition of the first Commission was introduced in the Legislature of 1891 by Hon. Frank Clark, present member of Congress from the Second Florida District, then member of the Legislature from Polk county. Before the bill came up for action Mr. Clark was called home and did not return during that session. The people of Gainesville being almost a unit in favor of its abolition, I took charge of the measure and championed its repeal on the floor of the House and it was carried by a large majority, although the opposition was led by Associate Justice W. A. Hooper, then member from Lake, in an exceedingly able manner and by Marion county's forceful and brilliant representative, Hon. R. A. Burford of Ocala. These men made an able and gallant fight for its retention, but the sentiment for its repeal was too strong and general. I remember further that at the time of its re-establishment it was claimed that the new Commission law avoided some of the defects in the first one and that the Commission would have power to "do something," and it may be that the trouble is not with the law, but with those to whom the people have intrusted its enforcement and as a "shipper who has suffered some." I am not willing to see the present law abolished without first trying a change in the personnel of the membership.

I know that Frank Harris wants no position, but I also know he is a patriot in the full sense of the term, and as he fully understands the situation, I think the people should elect him as a member of the Railroad Commission "will ye will ye," and I am satisfied that after giving the law a fair trial, he finds that it operates injuriously to the interior and is incapable of amendment in that particular, he will have the manhood to so state to the people, and then again advise to repeal.

The present rates are so high that tracking cannot be carried on profitably in this section, and I want to say in this connection that bad as the railroads are, they are not in it with the Southern Express Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company. These two are the most unconscienceless corporations that have ever afflicted the Southern people.

Respectfully,
SYD L. CARTER.

THERE'S A TIGER

Said to be lurking near this place, a bit of advice.

Editor Sun: I will say a few words upon a subject I feel very much interested in.

I hear by good authority there is a "blind tiger" somewhere near this place. I kept waiting, thinking some of the citizens through here would take steps towards putting this evil from among them. We are very sorry to see them so careless and unconcerned about their own welfare, and more especially the welfare of their sons and daughters. We find in a case of this kind a great scheme to keep strange and scandalous schemes in the people of Florida, and probably for them a bright and prosperous future if they will not be exposed to a sense of their duty and let not their community be disgraced by letting such an evan run on. Surely they will do me things with this.

How's This?

A few words and I am through. A hint to the wise is sufficient. Some people assume that intoxicants give strength, and we very often hear feeble persons say that they are "kept up by stimulants," but they are easily mistaken. They are really being "kept down." The sensation they derive from the immediate action of the stimulants deceives them and leads them to attribute passing good to what in the large majority of cases is persistent evil. "A fire makes a brilliant sight, but it leaves desolation." It is the same with alcohol. Young men, beware! Let your ambitions run high. You will come nearer making a success in the world by avoiding all evils, such as dram drinking, cigarette smoking and bad company.

Hoping to see some action taken to route out the "tiger" I will desist.
